HOME BUYERS COSTS

Stamp duty - Charged on UK land and property transactions. Stamp duty is calculated at different rates, with thresholds for different property types and transaction values.

There are different rules if you are buying your first home. You get a relief that means you pay less or no tax. For more information on the stamp duty thresholds visit www.gov.uk/stamp-duty-land-tax.

Legal fees - For any purchase you will need a solicitor to complete all the legal work. The fee for this service can vary, but generally costs between £500-750 VAT+.

Survey / valuation fee - All lenders will insist that a valuation is carried out on a property. This will only confirm the property value; it will not assess any potential problems with the property or need for future repair and maintenance. Valuation fees typically cost between £150 and £1,500 depending on the value of the property and level of survey you choose.

We may charge a fee for our services which will be clearly explained before you agree to proceed.

THREE REPORTS

Home condition survey – Best for new-build and conventional homes, this is the most basic survey and typically costs £250.

Homebuyer's report – A thorough survey and valuation of both the inside and outside of the property, typically costing £400+.

Building / structural survey – The most comprehensive survey, essential for older or non-standard properties. Costs £600+.

We will advise you as to which of the above we feel is the most appropriate option given your situation.

Arrangement fees - Most lenders will charge either an arrangement or a booking fee when you apply for a mortgage. Some lenders will allow you to add the cost of the fee to the overall loan, which means you do not need to pay this upfront. However, you will pay interest on this fee during the term of the mortgage.
